Dear Miss. D'Abo:

I regret the necessity of writing you this letter. I was a big fan of the Wonder Years, which I considered to be good wholesome entertainment. These days, I have noticed that your roles have been, to put it mildly, sexy.

My son Tolan, who is thirteen, recently rented an shocking movie where you appeared wearing clothing that I felt was very inappropriate. When I came in the room and saw what he was watching, I was appalled, and stopped the video immediately. Tolan has had his video store privileges revoked indefinitely. Also, I found that he had downloaded a picture of you from the Internet in which you were wearing a see through blouse. Are you aware that this picture is available?

I sincerely hope that your management has only misled you, and that in the future you will choose more family oriented roles.

Yours in God,

Garth Johnson

P.S. Could you send me an autographed picture? Not a smutty one please.
