Dear Ms. Pleshette:

This all started with an argument that my roommate Tolan and I were having. The topic was... during our youth... sitcoms only... who was the sexiest actress? Tolan began to champion Joanna Loudon (the late, lamented Mary Frann ) from the show, Newhart. He especially liked her sweaters. This caused me to immediately spring to your defense. Your character, Emily Hartley, was a major fantasy of mine as a lad. Joanna was just a bit too nice... wholesome. Emily, on the other hand, had a certain dark, forbidden allure to her. You just knew she had some sexy lingerie around that apartment somewhere. All Joanna had was sweaters and probably some long underwear. My other roommate Carolyn tried to tell us that Julie Kotter (Marcia Strassman) from Welcome Back Kotter was kinda pretty, but she was shouted down. Anyway, all this got me remembering you fondly. I just wanted to let you know... Emily Hartley was a great help in getting me through my adolescence. Even Tolan eventually had to give in and admit you were pretty hot. Carolyn just thinks we're stupid.

Thank You,

Garth Johnson

P.S. Could you send me an autographed picture of you in lingerie? Just kidding... about the lingerie part.
