Dear Ringo,

Have you accepted Christ as your personal savior? Ever since I saw you perform in the movie "Help" I have been greatly concerned about the salvation of your soul. The blasphemous tone of that movie disturbed me greatly. God, sir, is not to be made a mockery of...

"Let God transform you inwardly by a complete change of your mind." (Romans 12:2)

You and your band-mates dabbled in some pretty dangerous stuff back in those days, and it is my fervent hope that since that time you have turned your back on the teachings that led you astray. Unfortunately, your recent recordings do not seem to me to be glorifying God. We should always be giving thanks to the Creator for the gift of life and for the sacrifice of his only Son to absolve us from sin.

I too am a drummer, and my band, "The Rockin' Samaritans", both entertains and preaches to today's young people using Rock and Roll as a force of good instead of evil. If I can do this in my small way, think of all the multitudes you could shepherd towards a righteous existence.

Bless you,

Garth Johnson

P.S. Could you please send me an autographed picture?
